oners, appeared and asked the Council to take the necessary steps, by annex-colored College. The petition was referred to the Corporations Committee.

The Mayor was authorized to enter into contracts with Downer & Re-nell and R. A. Miller for the defense of Mrs. Latham's suit for damages to parties having quit business.

Mayor Meacham presented his draft of a bill in the police depart-

An appropriation of $30 was dering the present track to be removed within thirty days.

All pavement matters were postponed until the next meeting.

LEGISLATURE SUPREME In Transferring Cities From One Class to Another.

Frankfort, Ky., April 24.—The Appellate Court has reversed the Pulaski Circuit Court in the case of T. R. Griffin, Mayor, against Powell, and declared constitutional the act of March, 1910, making Somerset a city of the third class. The act was attacked on the ground that Somerset did not have 8,000 inhabitants, having by the 1910 census 4,311 population.

The court says that the Legislature must be regarded as having lawfully exercised the power conferred by section 156 of the constitution and under its provision the act is conclusive and cannot be questioned by the courts, that the manner of ascertaining the population is, therefore, a matter wholly in the discretion of the Legislature. The decision also effects Middlesboro, which was transferred by the same act and later found to have only 7,305 inhabitants.

pate in the election. The trustees

CHAS. L. DANIEL MEETS DEATH IN RUNAWAY

Thrown From a Vehicle and Instantly Killed Friday Evening.

WILL CARLOSS HURT.

Accident Occurred Near Tom Clark's on the Palmyra Pike.

Charles L. Daniel, one of the most popular and useful young business men of Hopkinsville, was thrown from a vehicle four miles south of town Friday evening and instantly killed. At the same time Will Car-loss had one of his ankles broken near the joint, and Will Stowe was thrown out but escaped serious injury by landing in a mudhole by the roadside.

The young men left in the morning in Mr. Daniel's light spring wagon for a day's fishing at Cherry Bottom pond near Howell. They had good success and were returning home about six o'clock when the accident occurred. The horse, a wild and unruly animal hired from a livery stable, for some unknown reason started to running and the young men were thrown out.

Mr. Carloss and Mr. Daniel were on the seat, the former driving. Mr.
Stowe was sitting on a small box in the bed of the wagon, his arm resting on the seat in front of him. At the first plunge the horse made, he shied to one side, the wheels on one side dropping into a ditch and Mr.
Stowe went out headforemost and landed in a mudhole by the roadside.
He extricated himself as soon as he could, but when he got up the tragedy was over. Looking for his companions he saw them lying in the road, the horse having broken loose from the vehicle when it struck a telephone pole. He ran about fifty yards to where Mr. Daniel was lying across the pike and found him dead. He attempted to resuscitate him by working his arms and rubbing his chest, but found no sign of life. Fifty feet further was Mr.
Carloss, lying in a heap and motionless. He found him alive, but with his right ankle broken, the bone protruding through the flesh and sock. Some distance up the road, the vehicle was found with its contents intact and it is supposed both of the young men jumped out. Mr.
Carloss was in a semi-conscious state and remained that way for several hours. He stated upon regaining consciousness that he remembered seeing Mr. Daniel lying in the road just before his own fall.

The horse continued to run and overtook a buggy with H. L. Lebkuecher, V. M. Williams and Percy Smithson in it and Mr. Smithson caught the horse and brought it to town.

In the meantime assistance soon appeared and from the nearest telephone the news was sent to town and Dr. J. E. Stone and Frank Yost went out in their automobiles and brought Mr. Stowe and Mr. Daniel's body to town. Mr. E. C. Radford had come along in a buggy and brought Mr. Carloss in to his boarding house at the Dr. Young place on North Main street about 7:30, where he was given surgical attention.

It is the opinion of physicians that Mr. Daniel was killed by falling on the pit of his stomach. He was lying face upward, but there was a bruise on his stomach. He had no bones broken and only slight abrasions about his face.

The horse was formerly owned by E. D. Jones and about a year ago ran off, throwing Mr. Jones and Mr. A. M. Henry out of the buggy. Both were badly hurt.
Mr. Jones sold the horse and he was hired only to those who understood his dangerous nature. About a month ago he ran off with Mr. Daniel and Clyde Hill and threw them out. Mr. Carloss was driving this time and the bit must have broken, as only part of the bit was on the bridle when the horse was caught.

Mr. Daniel was 32 years of age and was secretary and treasurer of the Hopkinsville Milling Co. He leaves a young wife, who was Miss Josie Diuguid, and one child, a little boy 7 years old. Mr. Daniel had lived in the city since his childhood and for a number of years was cashier for the L. & N. railroad in the local office, which place he resigned several years ago to enter the milling business. He owned a beautiful new home on South Virginia street with several acres of ground upon which he operated Daniel's Suburban Poultry Yards, breeding and selling standard bred poultry on a large scale. His yards are equipped in a most up-to-date manner and he took a keen interest in his fowls, and his home life generally.
He was a member of the Christian church and was a most exemplary and moral young man, much esteemed by many friends. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias, the Odd Fellows and the Travelers Protective Association, in which latter association he had a $5,000 accident policy.

The funeral services were conducted at the residence Sunday afternoon at two o'clock by Rev. T.
D. Moore and Rev. H. D. Smith, a great crowd of sympathetic friends being present. After the service was concluded, an opportunity was afforded to the friends of the deceased to take a last look at his face.
The Knights of Pythias and Odd Fellows formed a joint escort to the cemetery, and 140 of them marched two miles to Riverside cemetery.
There was a long procession of carriages, and hundreds preceded the cortege to the cemetery and were waiting for the body to arrive. It was one of the largest crowds ever seen at a funeral in Hopkinsville.
The grave was covered with floral tributes from loving friends.

The pallbearers were Dr. C. H.
Tandy, Gus R. Stevens, Clyde M.
Hill, W. A. Wilgus, W. R. Brumfield, Geo. M. Clark, J. W. Stowe and Frank Yost.

Mr. Daniel leaves his family a comfortable fortune. His home place is a valuable piece of suburban property, and in addition to other property he carried $13,000 of insurance.

MR. CARLOSS RESTING WELL.
Will Carloss, who is laid up with a fractured ankle, is doing well and no more serious results are expected than the protracted disability before he can be up again. He is a prominent and popular young business man, who is a past master of the Masonic Lodge.

SEASON'S BRIGHTEST COMEDY.

It will doubtless be of unusual interest to the Theatre goers of Hopland has secured "The Man on the Box" with Herbert Thayer in the title role for Friday night, April 28.

Mr. Thayer, as the Man on the Box is in one of the best and original roles, as he succeeds in reaching the innermost recesses of their hearts by his simplicity and naturalness. He plays the part with proper droll spirit of mixed fun and seriousness.
